NEWS

- Last day of the campaign; Christian Coalition will have exit polling.
- Overview of congressional races, referenda.
- Analysis of abortion ballot measures in Maryland and Arizona.
- California conservative coalition is being dismantled.

Pat Robertson

"The commentary is, it's going to be a bloody battle."

"The place they [Republican candidates] have to go is less government, lower taxes. But then they've got to go into the social issues -- they've got to go into the pro-family agenda, the better education and that sort of thing. That's where they can get a coalition. But you've got people like Pete Wilson, Weld and so forth who are pro-choice -- in Weld's case pro-homosexual rights -- and if they put together a party thing there could be a tremendous amount of infighting in '96. It's not going to be a pleasant thing for the Grand Old Party when that takes place. In fact, if Bush loses there will be bloody infighting, recrimination, 'you lost the election, it's your fault,' that kind of thing."

FEATURES

- Robertson calls for prayer and fasting on election day; ACLJ appeal.
- Sheila Walsh Miller interviewed -- she had a breakdown.
- Interview with James Robison -- he had a breakdown too.

NEWS

- Clinton defeats Bush.
- Interview with Vin Weber, who sees potential for infighting.
- Report on ballot initiatives.

Pat Robertson

"As an issue in politics, abortion is no longer current. The people of America overwhelmingly think that the slaughter of unborn babies is a good thing, and they want no restraint on it."

-- Comparison of 1992 election to other elections, predicts doom.

Pat Robertson

"I also spoke to Dan Quayle this morning and he is not ready to give up. His day in the sun, I don't think, is over."

FEATURES

- Journalist overcomes drug addiction; Kinchlow offers an unconventional analysis.
- Report on the Dead Sea Scrolls.
- Regent U. graduate succeeding in NYC.
- ACLJ appeal.

NEWS

- Clinton settling in and planning his presidency.
- Assisted suicide initiative rejected in California, but remains an issue.

Pat Robertson

"Once you start killing a few, watch out for the AIDS victims, they'll be going quickly, because they're very, very expensive, so everybody says hey, that's a class we can -- you know they're going to die anyhow -- so sign this."

- GOP has already started its internal power struggle; interview with Brent Bozell and Burton Pines.

Pat Robertson

"[we're] just good ol' boys trying to help the country."

"So they lose an election. So the economy's not too good. So the people wanted change. So they get themselves a good old boy who does hog calls on television, plays the sax, talks about 'sic 'em hound dogs,' you know, they like that, and so he touched the young group, and he won."

"The Republican party can't win anything without its major coalition."

"It's participatory democracy. The more people we get in the system, the more people we get in the precincts, the more people we get out being good citizens the better off this nation will be."

- Anti-abortion ad.

FEATURES

- Story of Sen. Richard Lugar -- what his parents did right.

Pat Robertson

"Since Nero set fire to Rome and blamed the Christians for it, this is the worst I've seen. To say the Christians were responsible for the loss of the presidency by George Bush is utterly absurd."

NEWS

- Clinton working on transition. He will overturn Bush's pro-life decisions.
- Teenage girl makes abortion decision, then kills herself.
- Rampant STD's in teenagers; we must stress abstinence.
- Homosexuals upset about Colorado initiative; homosexual community may boycott Colorado.

- Robertson predicts many states will follow Colorado's lead.

FEATURES

- Interview with Jay Sekulow.
- Jailhouse conversions.
- Highwire walker with artificial leg.

Pat Robertson

"I believe that everybody should get involved at the grass roots. I think that it's time to see legislation won, the off-season elections, the off-year in 1994 there'll be a major shift in the congress and it will be relatively easy to gain seven more seats in the Senate and maybe what would amount to a working majority in the House of Representatives."

"There should be a selection of really good candidates who share the conservative perspective on life and who share fundamental Christian values who would like to be offered up themselves as candidates."

NEWS

- Clinton getting set; issues include homosexuals in the military.
- GOP is soul-searching. New DLC-style committee with Kemp, Bennett.

Pat Robertson

"Very few moderate Republicans win. I think the winning tickets are those who have a message for the grassroots, for the mainstream of American, and for the working people -- people who are hurting... all politics is local, and in this particular case, they've got to win local elections -- and that's two years from now -- and they could do a good job with that, assuming Clinton isn't doing that well."

- Report on fight for religious liberty in the U.S.
- Interview with Keith Fournier.

Robertson

"We've got to put God back in the public schools."

"Seventy-five percent of Americans want prayer back in the public schools."
